

I don't have 2 computers I can use. I recently bought a Windows computer just for the sake of using it with 'Gvahim' software, since I realized many things don't work on the Mac. I am a Mac user primarily.

If you run it on two different computers, all you have to change is the IP addresses, otherwise I don't see a reason it shouldn't work. From the nature of the error message you are getting it seems like the computer is sniffing more than one packet at a time. I use the ip address as a filter, so there is always one packet of ICMP.
